RESULTS & RESPONSES—2002-03

OBJECTIVE 1

The Student Affairs Office will advance the Christian distinctiveness of the College through appropriate student life and campus ministry activities.

RESULTS

All Brewton-Parker College activities are planned with the Christian mission serving as a guideline. Activities and meetings begin with a word of prayer. All activities are presented in a safe environment, with leaders encouraging appropriate Christian sportsmanship and competition.

The Office of Student Affairs coordinated monthly activities that included:

- August: Weekend activities and Church dessert social
- September: SAC movie—Welcome Back
- October: SAC Halloween/Fall festival
- November: Pool tournament
- December: SAC movie
- January: SAC movie
- February: Homecoming dance
- March: Pool tournament, Beach volleyball
- April: Alumni activities

Additional Weekend Activities: Midnight Breakfast, Christmas Semi-formal, Sadie Hawkins Dance, Dedication Week Activities, and Luau.

- The Office of Student Affairs also coordinated efforts through Campus Ministry that sought to provide various opportunities for spiritual growth and development during the academic year. These events allowed Campus Ministry to make contact with more than one hundred twenty of the six hundred plus students on Brewton-Parker College's main campus. On Monday night of each week, Campus Ministry hosted a weekly worship consisting of music, drama, and biblical teaching. The beginning weeks of the fall semester, following a normal pattern, were the largest attendance of the academic year, over one hundred. This pattern is typically attributed to the new students trying to discover their place within the school. As the year progressed, the number of students attending the weekly worship meetings leveled. This number averaged from sixty-five to eighty-six in the fall and spring semesters. Though weekly worship was the main emphasis for the past year, other weekly events were part of the program. The campus minister met each week with the leadership team, consisting of eight students, for a time of training, accountability, and business. Dorm bible studies were also held each week with twenty-nine students involved throughout the year. Neither the studies nor evangelistic opportunities were strongly emphasized.

Various mission opportunities were offered throughout the year. On a weekly basis, mission teams were sent to local nursing homes and the boys and girls club. Only about fourteen students participated in these weekly events. The winter mission trip had a few more participants. Over their Christmas break, seventeen students went to Jacksonville, Florida to work with children and other needs based ministries. Several of these students are returning to Jacksonville for the summer to continue the work there. The spring break mission trip met several difficulties. The students did not have a campus minister to sponsor the trip and take care of the administrative duties involved in planning a mission trip. Yet, eight students arranged their own trip and spent the week in Montgomery, Alabama. This summer several students are working in local churches in this area and their home areas, several are going to other states to serve, and one will be serving in Africa.

RESPONSE

- The Student Activities Director will schedule activities to optimize participation by on campus and off campus students. Develop better communication of events to students- weekly campus activities newsletter (completed March 2002), updated student handbook and calendar, and weekly update on website.

Intramurals will add Tennis, Ping-Pong ladder, and pool tournaments next year. Also planned is a mini-tri-aphelion event for campus and community (swimming, running, biking activities). We will also continue aerobics classes and add running and weightlifting classes.

SGA will plan more campus activities and continue to be available to students by developing an SGA website displaying an SGA office, phone number and email address where ideals and suggestions can be made.

All activities will continue to promote and foster Brewton-Parker College's Christian environment.

- Based upon the data shown in the Semester reports, the following modifications are needed in the Campus Ministry program:

1. Student Leadership for Campus Ministry will consist of 12 Students during the next academic as opposed to 8 in the previous year.
2. Campus Ministry will provide evangelistic training in an effort to encourage evangelistic projects on campus.
3. Campus Ministry will build an ongoing Discipleship program to encourage greater participation of students.
4. Campus Ministry will seek to raise mission awareness in order to encourage greater participation of students in local, regional, and global mission opportunities.

The training entails:

- Alcohol and drug education
- Conflict resolution training
- Crisis management and intervention
- Roommate negotiation training
- Cultural diversity seminar
- Academic concerns
- Campus services

Performance ratings completed for the 2005-06 year resulted in the dismissal of two RA's and not re-hiring three RA's for the 2006-07 year. Information from the surveys and performance ratings assisted in more ideas for RD/RA training. We will also have better coverage in the residence halls where problems were indicated. An additional RA was placed in halls where problems were persistent.
